Lucinda isn't your girl. She isn't mine, either. This isn't some contest between you and me.
It doesn't matter if you chase me off or beat me up, because she'd never give scum like you the time of day!

WHAK!
And what if I told you your perfect little princess was already mine? That she loved me so much it drove her mad!
She begged me to stay with her, even after all my promises that I would come back for her. And I did keep that promise, in my own way.
She loved me so much, she had to sell her soul just for the power to not feel her sorrow after I left.
It's... you! Han! What d-did you do?! Where's V-V-Vaniji?!
Oh, when he found out I was disguised as his friend, I had to kill him.
Which reminds me... take a guess at why I'm not scared of telling you all this?
